

The Art of Floating:

A TROPICAL ISLAND YOGA RETREAT

8–14 June 2026 | 7 Days / 6 Nights
Floating Paradise – Karimunjawa

Step out of your everyday life and find harmony above the sea

Floating Paradise lives in relationship with its surroundings, shaped by the tides, the wind & the moons phases.
This retreat invites you to tune into your own living flow too.

The Art of Floating is an intimate, sea-based yoga retreat designed for those ready to embrace a slower, more sustainable rhythm.

Set at our solar-powered guesthouse suspended above the water, this retreat blends daily practice, nature immersion, and meaningful contribution, all shaped by the elements of island life.

Here, yoga is a tool for living, not a performance.

Across the week, we focus on three core themes:

Self-Love & Self-Acceptance

Using yoga to care for yourself physically, mentally, and spiritually, learning to listen, adapt, and build an honest, kind relationship with yourself.

Embodied Exploration

Refine alignment, receive hands-on guidance, and explore deeper expressions of classic postures in a supportive, non-competitive space.

Intentional Living

Practicing presence on and off the mat, discover what it means to “float” in your breath, your body, and your everyday life.

Perfect for beginners and those ready to deepen their practice. Singles and couples welcome.

Nature & Contribution Karma Yoga

Floating Paradise is not separate from its environment, and neither is this retreat.

Contribution here is quiet, grounded, and meaningful, a reminder that balance includes giving back.

In addition, €100 will be donated on your behalf to a local educational charity (including in the retreat price).

Throughout the week, we weave inner work with outward care through:

- Mangrove kayaking & reforestation
- Beach clean-ups with a local educational nature-based foundation
- A full-day boat trip exploring the archipelago and its reefs
- Silent beach walks & beach yoga
- Snorkelling, swimming, and unstructured hours in wild nature

- Dawn: morning yoga, blending meditation and pranayama
- Morning: fresh breakfast followed by nature-based activities (kayaking, snorkeling, swimming) or free time
- Midday: locally prepared lunch & rest during the warmest hours
- Afternoon: Sunset yoga on the jetty
- Evening: plant-based buffet dinner followed by either a sharing circle, Yoga Nidra or Yin Yoga session
- Throughout the week: Yogic dharma inspired by the Yamas & Niyamas woven gently into the retreat.

Floating Paradise is typically known for its specialty local seafood dishes: vibrant, generous plates always served with seasonal vegetables, fresh fruit, and plenty of love.

For this retreat, we're elevating our menu into a nourishing fusion experience: classic Indonesian flavours reimagined with wholesome plant-based proteins, colourful salads, and touches of cross-Asian inspiration woven throughout.

This is food that nourishes, delights, and feels aligned with the spirit of the retreat.

This retreat is for you if:

- You're fairly new to yoga or want to refine foundations
- You want to spend time in nature that feels meaningful and restorative
- You want to learn more about mindfulness and intentional living (yogic dharma)
- Reconnect with your body and inner compass
- You want to slow down without guilt
- You want to develop tools to live yoga off the mat

This retreat may not be for you if:

- You struggle in nature-based settings
- You need air-conditioned, sealed-off environments
- You prefer rigid schedules
- You are looking for advanced, athletic yoga training

Astrid is the heart of the yoga experience at Floating Paradise, guiding with a gentle presence, and grounded in wisdom.

She completed her 200-hour Yoga Teacher Training in India in 2020 and has been teaching here ever since, focusing on classic hatha and hatha flow practices, blending pranayama & meditation into classes that are accessible, balanced, and deeply nourishing.

Guests at Floating frequently highlight her relaxed, supportive teaching style and the special magic of practicing yoga on the jetty at sunset, with the sound of water and the horizon stretching beside them.

Cornelius Haritz

...The yoga sessions with Astrid on the wooden jetty were a highlight, just like meditating there after dinner, with nothing but the moon and the stars above you, the jungle around you and the water beneath you. Facilities were great and were just right for me to have the most comfortable stay without distracting me from the beauty around me with unnecessary (and unsustainable) frills.

My retreat at floating paradise truly left a mark and will stay with me.

Benedikt Schuler

"I had the chance to do some yoga lessons with Astrid when I visited Karimunjawa. For me her style was the perfect mixture between healthy exercise and wholesome meditation. In her class I felt completely safe and comfortable. She has a great deal of knowledge and experience, while staying humble. I definitely recommend practicing yoga with Astrid and I wish her only love and success on her path of life."
